

U.K. Modern Slavery Act Transparency Statement

For year ended December 31, 2017

I. Introduction

JPMorgan Chase & Co. supports fundamental principles of human rights across all our lines of business and in each region of the world where we have a presence. We recognize that modern slavery issues, such as forced labor and human trafficking, are a significant global challenge. We believe it is the role of government in every country to protect human rights. We also believe that our company has a role to play in promoting respect for human rights. To that end, this Transparency Statement, made pursuant to section 54 of the U.K. Modern Slavery Act 2015, outlines the steps we are taking across JPMorgan Chase to mitigate the potential risk of modern slavery occurring in our business and supply chain.

II. Our Organization

JPMorgan Chase is a leading global financial services firm with assets of $2.5 trillion and operations worldwide. The firm is a leader in investment banking, financial services for consumers and small businesses, commercial banking, financial transaction processing and asset management. A component of the Dow Jones Industrial Average, we serve millions of consumers in the United States and many of the world's most prominent corporate, institutional and government clients under the J.P. Morgan and Chase brands. We have a presence in more than 100 markets, including the U.K., and have over 250,000 employees worldwide.

III. Our Efforts on Human Rights and Modern Slavery

Our Firm's respect for the protection and preservation of human rights is guided by the principles set forth in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Further, we acknowledge the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights ("Guiding Principles") as the recognized framework for corporations to respect human rights in their own operations and through business relationships.

Our Human Rights Statement outlines our commitment to support fundamental principles of human rights across our lines of business and in each region of the world where we have a presence. In addition, our Firm-wide Code of Conduct communicates our expectation for conducting business ethically and in compliance with the law. All JPMorgan Chase employees are required to complete training on our Code of Conduct. Employees who become aware of or who suspect violations of the Code of Conduct or company policy, law or regulation related to JPMorgan Chase business, are obligated to report such concerns. This can be done through various channels described in the Code of Conduct, including the Firm's Code Reporting Hotline (which is administered by a third party - with translators available), Human Resources, or other appropriate resource. Where legally permissible, reporting through the Code Reporting Hotline may be done anonymously.

In addition, we have a range of policies, procedures and training that pertain to human rights issues, including modern slavery, across our business and supply chain.

A. Employees

As a global financial services firm, we have a broad base of employees who work across various business lines, regions and functions to deliver products and services to our clients and customers, as well as employees who provide expertise in risk management, technology, legal, policy and regulation, finance, accounting, controls, human resources and many more areas. JPMorgan Chase is committed to respecting the human rights of our employees through our internal employment policies and practices. Fostering diversity and inclusion is a cornerstone of our corporate culture, and we strive to ensure that employees are able to work in a safe, professional work environment. In addition, compensation and benefits, as part of our talent development strategy, play a critical role in our ability to attract, retain and motivate our workforce. We are committed to providing competitive and equitable compensation for our employees, and benefits that support our employees' needs, such as health and retirement benefits and other programs to support work-life balance.

B. Suppliers

JPMorgan Chase is committed to holding ourselves and our supplier community to high standards of business conduct and integrity. Our Supplier Code of Conduct ("Supplier Code") sets out our principles and expectations for suppliers, vendors, consultants, contractors and other third parties working on behalf of the Firm, as well as the owners, officers, directors, employees, contractors and sub-contractors of these supplier organizations and entities. The Supplier Code communicates the responsibilities of suppliers on a range of issues, including the need to promote and respect human rights by working to prevent child and/or forced labor and human trafficking in their operations and supply chains, and by instituting practices and operations that are consistent with the framework provided by the Guiding Principles. This also includes an obligation to report any concern or suspected violation of the law or regulation related to JPMorgan Chase's business or a violation of the Supplier Code.

C. Products and Services

As part of our broad effort to integrate respect for human rights into the business of the Firm, JPMorgan Chase has various policies and procedures designed to prevent our products and services from being used for improper purposes. Depending upon the relevance to their line of business and function, employees receive training on various policies and procedures that pertain to products and services we provide to our clients and customers. These include:

- Policies and procedures pertaining to Anti-Corruption, Anti-Money Laundering ("AML") and Know Your Customer due diligence. For example, the Firm has a Global Anti-Money Laundering Compliance Program that includes policies, procedures and internal controls designed to comply with all applicable U.S. and international AML and counter-terrorist financing laws and regulations. As part of this program, the Firm works to help identify customers whose financial activity may show involvement in human trafficking and communicates actionable information directly to law enforcement. The Firm is a member of the Wolfsberg Group, an association of 13 global banks that aims to develop frameworks and guidance for the management of financial crime risks, particularly with respect to AML and counter-terror financing policies. In addition, the Firm participates in the Joint Money Laundering Intelligence Taskforce, a public-private information sharing forum in the U.K., which is working to understand and disrupt funding flows linked to threats such as organized immigration crime, human trafficking and modern slavery.
- Our Environmental and Social Policy Framework ("E&S Framework"), which guides our approach to assessing environmental and social risks, including those related to human rights, for transactions and clients. The E&S Framework outlines certain prohibited activities, including those where there is evidence of child labor or modern slavery, such as forced labor and human trafficking. In addition, the Firm has adopted the Equator Principles, which cover relevant human rights issues for certain asset-specific financings, including prohibition of the use of involuntary or compulsory labor, and prohibition of child labor. In 2017, we began an effort to identify countries and industries where there may be a greater risk for modern slavery. We will continue to evaluate efforts made by clients for avoiding or mitigating modern slavery risks within their operations or supply chains.

- Our Global Proxy Voting Procedures and Guidelines, which outline J.P. Morgan Asset Management's approach to proxy voting and engaging with companies on environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues. Asset Management also has a Sustainable Investing Statement, which it shares with clients, that describes its approach to incorporating ESG factors across asset classes and investment offerings, where material and relevant. Asset Management is a signatory to the U.K. Stewardship Code and the United Nations-supported Principles for Responsible Investment, which promote ESG integration and investor engagement on ESG issues.

IV. Our Evolving Process

We recognize that modern slavery issues are both complex and changing in nature, and we strive to maintain practices and policies that fulfill our commitment to promoting respect for human rights. We know that this must be a continuing effort, with ongoing work to reassess our practices and our approach in light of changing global circumstances and an evolving global policy environment. We are also committed to engaging with a range of stakeholders on these important topics.

This Transparency Statement, made pursuant to section 54 of the U.K. Modern Slavery Act 2015, is for the year ended December 31, 2017, and was approved by the JPMorgan Chase & Co. Board of Directors on April 17, 2018. It has been published in the Human Rights section of the Firm's webpage (see www.jpmorganchase.com/esg) and will continue to be updated annually.
